

CERTIFICATE PROGRAM EXPLORES FAITH & CREATION

Contemplation and Care for Creation
One-year program beginning May 27, 2017
On-site and online

INSTRUCTORS

Dr. Robin Gottfried, Center Director and Professor Emeritus of Economics

Dr. John Gatta, former Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and William B. Kenan Jr. Professor of English, The University of the South

Dr. Andrew Thompson, Postdoctoral Fellow in Environmental Ethics and Assistant Director of CRE at the School of Theology

The Rev. Jerry Cappel, Environmental Coordinator for Province IV of The Episcopal Church

TUITION $2,500, with a deposit of $500 upon application.
This cost does not include lodging or food. Financial aid is available.

If you relish the idea of exploring, in company with others, the “ecology” of the interaction of Christian faith and spirituality with environmental consciousness, consider participating in the Center for Religion and Environment’s non-credit certificate program. Our ecumenical program welcomes and encourages participation from persons of all parts of the Christian family.

Contact information, application information, dates, food and lodging, and other pertinent information can be found at www.sewanee.edu/resources/cre/what-we-do/certificate-in-contemplation-and-care-for-creation

Center for Religion and Environment

